Eve and Vlad had a very fun and festive wedding photographed by talented Philadelphia photographer, Smirnov Weddings. Everything occurred in the Paradise Restaurant in Philly, a beautiful restaurant hidden within a Russian plaza. The cheerful colors: purples, blues and whites were a décor paradise for their family and friends.

Eve & Vlad desired a traditional Christian-Orthodox ceremony that consisted of reading the passages by the priest and the crowning of the couple. The dining feast consisted of various Eastern European fare continuously served throughout the reception. We must say that Eve's gown from Sposa Bella was lavish, a perfect match to the couple's wedding theme.

Another refreshing surprise was the entertainment also provided by Paradise, which certainly got the wedding party singing and happily participating in games. An amazing evening for each and every one with Russian cuisine, Euro-disco, engaging entertainment, and great family and friends!
